

Some apples found around Castle Farm orchard.

While walking Millie around the 50 acres of orchards comprising Castle Farm, I had noticed from time to time an apple that was different. I made a point of collecting one of each (I was not scrumping, Your Honour, I was conducting research...) and photographing them. Not all of these are still around as some Cox's and all the pears have been grubbed out and replaced with Galas.

The charming and helpful Peter Checkley and Wendy Johnson then kindly identified them for me and this is what I found;

Howgate Wonder

Cheerful Gold

Bramley

Russet

Golden Hornet pollinator

Professor Springer pollinator

Gala

Spartan

Golden Delicious

Cox's Orange Pippin
